PLANTING A FOREST.

Secretary Freeman Returns from Kosciusko County.

Prof. W. H. Freeman, secretary of the State Board of Forestry, returned yesterman, proprietor of a Yellow Creek lake that he expects to have covered with forest, planting eight acres each spring until the entire work is completed. The trees to be planted are walnut, ash, oak, wild cherry, catalpa and white pine. The planting of this forest, said Prof. Freeman, is being done purely for revenue, to show the actual money value of scientific forestry. Prof. Freeman states that interest in forestry is on the increase in Indiana, and that he receives many calls for aid in developing and originating forests. He goes to-mor row to Lafayette to attend a meeting of the farmers' institute workers of the State, and will remain there the balance of the week studying forestry work with Prof. Stanley B. Coulter, of Purdue University.

BONA FIDE INDEBTEDNESS.

Statistics Being Compiled Where It

Is Deducted. State Statistician Johnson is sending to township assessors printed blanks to be filled up with figures showing the amount of bona fide indebtedness deducted from personal property credits in this State. He says the total will very much exceed the total of deductions made under the mortgage exemption law, which is at present the subject of attack in the courts. The statistician thinks if the mortgage deduction law is held unconstitutional the same should be held in regard to the bona fide indebtedness deduction from personal property credits. The mortgage exemption law has been upset by a Circuit Court, and the case will be appealed to the Supreme Court. Attorney General Taylor will be furnished with the statistics that are now being collected by Mr. Johnson, and will probably employ them in his argument of the mortgage exemption case before the Supreme Court.

Relatives of Henry Clay. Attorney General Taylor would like to find some person who can tell him of the whereabouts of relatives or money left by Henry Clay, an aged colored man, who died Feb. 29 last, on his fine forty-acre farm. which lies between farms owned by Conthree miles east of Indianapolis on the Clay's death the State of Indiana laid claim to his farm, worth $60 an acre, but soon afterwards alleged relatives poured in from Maysville and Taylorsville, Ky. By these people the old man's remains were eximed several times in the hope of successfully identifying them, but thus far the identifications have been uncertain. The old man is believed to have possessed several hundred dollars at the time of his death, but no trace of the money can be found, which gives rise to the opinion that he buried it. If found, the money will go to the school fund. New Planes $166 and up at Wuischner's, i pared to bid and have bid for work upon 'recover.

Specifications for Block Call for a Mysterious Concoction-Sensational Charges Made.

James M. Leathers, of the Superior Court. preventing the Board of Works and the with wooden block Temple avenue from Washington to New York streets until was issued on petition filed by William A. Ketcham on behalf of resident property holders on Temple avenue.

The suit is not only a legal proceeding, out also an exposure of the alleged method employed by the city administration in barring all competition in the letting of contracts for creosote block paving and discriminating against contractors for the exclusive benefit of the Hoosier Construction Company. The complaint alleges that the specifications prepared by the city engineer for block paving stipulate that blocks must be prepared with "kreodone, or Republic creosote paving oil," which is manufactured by the Western Creosote Company and its exclusive sale limited to the Hoosier Construction Company. The they furnish, and as to what kreedone or states that no other company or contractor can purchase "kreodone," that it is not on the market, and by a collusion of the Western Creosote Company, the Hoosier Construction Company, the city engineer, the Board of Public Works and Mayor Taggart all other bidders other than the Hoosier Construction Company are precluded from securing contracts and competition is barred. Kenyon, the Board of Public Works, Albert Sahm, Charles A. Maguire, the city of Indianapolis and Thomas Taggart, mayor. The complaint says that on July 13 John Reidy and other residents on Temple avenue filed a petition with the Board of Public Works for the improvement of Temple avenue, from Washington to New York street, with wooden blocks, and it was approved by the city engineer. On Aug. 19 the city engineer filed with the Board of Works his estimate of the improvement, estimating the same to cost $11,500, and the board took final action without modifying the specifications. On Sept. 26 the plaintiffs, with other property holders, filed a remonstrance with the Board of Works, which was turned over to the city engineer for investigation. MRS. EDWIN MAY DEAD.

The plaintiffs in the suit are Charles | Remembered Here Because of Alleged Claim Against the State.

A telegram was received in this city yesterday from J. H. May, of 196 State street, Chicago, announcing the death of Mrs. Edwas very well known in State official circles in this State because of her husband's State Capitol. Edwin F. May was appointed architect of the Capitol, but died within a short time after the building was begun, and Adolph Scherer, an assistant in his office, was selected to take his place and complete the work. Mrs. May presented against the State of Indiana a claim for $10,000 on account of commissions alleged to be due her late husband, and the Legislature of 1883 allowed torney general held that under the Constitution the Legislature could not appropriate money in this way, and the Legislature of 1885 enacted a law in regular form appropriating the amount of Mrs. May's claim. Soon afterwards she presented a claim for $5,000 said to be for royalties on certain patented cell locks used in the Northern Prison at Michigan City since the time Mr. May was architect for that institution, back in the fifties. In pressing this claim Mrs. May became a famillar figure about the Indiana Legislature, having appeared at every session since 1885, except the session of last winter, when she was reported dead, the rumor originating doubtless from her nonappearance. The deceased was, in her younger days, a remarkably beautiful woman, and at her death, although she had reached middle age, retained much of her good looks.
